

James Clarke Biography:

James Clarke received his Bachelor of Science (BS) and Master of Fine Arts (MFA) degrees from the University of Wisconsin/Madison. He taught Art in the Cheyenne, Wyoming and Madison Wisconsin Public School Systems prior to establishing himself as a professional Artist founding the James Clarke Glass Studio. James produced a line of blown glass perfume vials, vessels, and sculptures until the late 1990's (see www.jamesclarke.com).

After a brief detour out of the Art business, James returned to the creative arts with the establishment of the online business PopArtMagic.com, where he transforms client's favorite photographs into pop art renditions printed on canvas via large format screen printers.

During this time, he was introduced to iPhone photography, otherwise known as iPhoneography. In the relatively short time this Art form has existed, James has had national and international recognition for his work. His iPhoneography has been included in several photographic competitions including iWorld at the Colorado Photographic Arts Center, the 1st annual iPhoneography Miami 2012 Show in Miami, FL, and the Phone-ography show at the Arts Eye Gallery in Tucson. His work can also be seen on several major websites including Pixels.com, Pixelsatanexhibition.com, iPhoneArt.com, and Clarkeography.com.
